

Your recent speakers have been heavy talking, and it has been decided that I should lighten things up a little for you.

My name is Jenny and I was living on earth until the late 1960's. 1967 to be precise, I had to think about that for a moment.

I was always a believer. Right from when I was very young, I knew there was something more than just the one life. It was when I was in my thirties that I found the calling. Change that to had the calling, sounds better, although my way of saying it is more accurate.

There were some fabulous mediums around in those days. I had the pleasure of meeting Doris Stokes when she visited our church in Bromsgrove.

There is a danger that some believers can be a little too serious about the topic. I'm not suggesting that it's all fun and games, but life this side is bliss really.

In many ways it's quite normal. In other ways it's remarkable what we can perceive and achieve if we put our minds together. Even in that normal sounding phrase of 'putting our minds together' — is a whole day of being that words cannot describe. Imagine, you have just one voice in your head at any time. When we put our minds together we are literally of one mind with many voices. It all happens so naturally too.

People on earth often worry about the things they think alone. They worry that other people might be able to read their minds. Or they worry that their private thoughts may be heard by someone over here.

Let me reassure you, the sanctity of your thoughts remains, in fact. It is only when your intent changes that the door to your mind is open. You should be an expert on this by now. Do you understand now how you open the doors of your mind for my voice to enter.

Yes I know you're hearing my words with your own mind's voice. Wouldn't it be strange if you started hearing my female voice. You'd soon start behaving yourself, wouldn't you?

The minimum is always the mystery. How we live, how we communicate, how our thought lives are achieved and so on. All great mysteries for people on earth to even start to comprehend. Its all so far removed from their existence.

For us, its all quite natural and no great mystery at all. I must have been here some time before I realised that the way I was communicating with others had changed. I hadn't noticed. That's how transitional it really is. From breathing air on earth to existing in this new world. It happens just like that.

I have been keeping an eye on some of the mechanics of your generation. Some of them really do have great intentions. Mind you, there's a few that have their focus on the wrong place too. The fame-seekers, as I call them. They have walked half the path and are sat down resting on what they've learnt so far without realising that the path ahead still waits their footsteps.

lets not get too political. I'm here to lighten things up. How am I doing?

Yes that was a stray thought I gave you.
Bacon and cheese! I think I'll have that later for my meal.

Your main guide tells me that you are often disappointed with your own progress. I don't believe you think like that. I mean, look at you now, penning my words as I speak them.
There are millions all over your planet
that would love to be able to do that!
Of course, they could. They just don't believe in themselves.

You have a long life ahead of you and many exciting twists and turns to come. Hold on tight and keep doing what you're doing. That goes for anyone else reading these words. Keep on keeping on.

I've enjoyed chatting with you this
day. I hope you found my words useful.
I'm going now. Perhaps we'll meet some day. That would be nice.
Farewell my new friend. Please draw some crosses for everyone.
