

You have chosen to play our music in your ears in the hope I will come forward and speak to you today.
But I have nothing I want to share with you in particular. You know I am with you, working
with you from my home here. We have been together for a couple of your decades. I know of your challenges and I have witnessed your growth. You have been like a caterpillar

changing to a butterfly.
You are a unique spirit and I'm faced many challenges working with you. Your eyes here, get your brain don't always connect.

Even now, I can feel the wind from your busy mind.
My purpose has always been to help show you enlightenment. I've been demanding, stubborn
and blocked in mind.
I have always worked
to free these blockages to allow your eyes and ears to experience the true essence of your spirit.

Do I feel burdened? Not at all. You are special to me, as are all the people I work with.

My purpose has been one of fulfillment - to help you realize what you have access to in your world and the one I reside in:

I first met you when you were called to give healing to my own son. That healing was where our relationship began, or at least, where you were aware of it first.

I said then that I would work with you forever I was needed. That remains so. You realised a butterfly yesterday. That was from me, and I
will send more gifts.
Please stay obedient.
I smile when I
think about your hang ups of wanting
to know my name.
I changed it some time

years after I told you, because you were having hangups about it. The name you know me as now is fitting, don't you think? Your realizations at the time were amusing to watch.

My son is a remarkable man nowadays. He's a hunter and lends for his new family with pride and success. His lifestyle differs to what mine was,
but I am proud of him for it. Well, I really have nothing more to say at this time. I am around you when you need me

and always ready to guide you through your life on earth.

Make the most of it
and keep pursuing your relationship. Miracles, as you call them are more common than you might imagine. When the impossible happens, it is considered a miracle. But when it continues to happen, you realize that miracles are nothing more than the way of this life on earth and in heaven.

I send you peace.
